

Failure To Aid
Austrians Gave
Nazis Idea War
Not Possible

(Editor's note: This is the third and last of a series of stories for afternoon newspapers on secret telephone conversations between Nazi officials, recorded at the time of the Austrian Anschluss.)

Berlin, Nov. 7 (AP)—Records of secret telephone conversations which took place between Nazi leaders while German troops were marching into Austria in 1938 indicate they believed that war was averted at that time only because Britain failed to support France in a threat to fight.

On Sunday, March 13, 1938, the occupation already was well under way and Adolf Hitler was in Linz, preparing for a triumphal entry into Vienna.

Reichsmarschal Hermann Goering, excited by receipt of what he believed authentic information that France had backed down in her threat to fight for Austria's integrity, hastily telephoned his chief lieutenant in Vienna, Maj. Gen. Karl Bodenschatz. Apparently the Germans had intercepted or otherwise obtained possession of diplomatic messages which had just been decoded.

Repeatedly emphasizing that Britain had rejected a French proposal for action, he admonished Bodenschatz to be certain Hitler read the "brown papers" being sent him at Linz. Goering apparently feared that Hitler, in the midst of the excited welcome from Austrian Nazis, would miss reading the papers and say or do something that would upset the appeacrat.

Goering and suave Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop already were laying the groundwork for trapping Britain's Prime Minister, Neville Chamberlain, at Munich. In Britain, Anthony Eden had resigned as foreign secretary in a protest against appeasement of the dictators.

In France, Socialist Premier Leon Blum's government had gone so far as to mobilize some troops on the Maginot Line while apparently seeking to align Britain and Italy in a united front against Germany. But the Germans believed Mussolini had been decisively turned against any anti-German bloc by Hitler's message to the Duce, declaring that the Italian-German frontier at the Brenner Pass was settled for all time.

HALF MILLION
FOR BUILDINGS
AT M. ST. MARY'S

A $500,000 building program, designed to provide proper accommodations for returning veterans as well as lasting and adequate facilities for the cultural and technical training of youth, now is under way at Mount St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg.

Second oldest of all the Catholic colleges and universities in the nation, Mount St. Mary's is represented by alumni in virtually all of the larger cities and a great number of smaller ones throughout the country. Many of its graduates are participating in the current campaign for funds to complete the expansion program.

Among the new buildings planned and ready for construction is a completely modern science building, estimated to cost approximately $158,000. It will accommodate physics and biology laboratories, a complete chemistry department, equipment rooms, offices, a library and work room.

An infirmary and Sisters' home, estimated to cost $76,400; a spacious Jacob Rohrbach memorial library to cost $104,000; a $250,000 gymnasium and recreation building, and an outdoor swimming pool, almost completed, are other main projects in the construction program.

Follow Original Plan

Current improvements are in line with the general plans for the college as drawn 123 years ago by Bishop Simon Bruté, first spiritual director of the institution. The first permanent building from these plans was erected in 1824, 16 years after the founding of the college by a French refugee, Father John DuBois. Subsequently, the physical plant of the college was greatly expanded, with each new building sitting amid natural surroundings on the slopes of the Blue Ridge mountains.

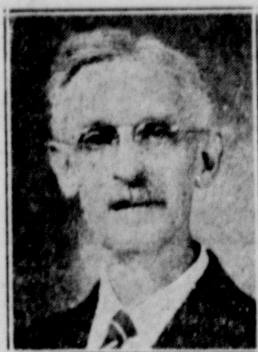

Mount St. Mary's was one of the few small colleges which qualified for the highly specialized Navy V-5 and V-12 programs. Over 2000 officer-candidates completed their preliminary training there, the last class being graduated on October 25.

Mount St. Mary's has been for over 137 years a leader in the field of private education. The new building program will enable her to perfect her services and hold her place against the ever increasing pressure of state supported and subsidized institutions.

Other borough offices were uncontested and the nominees gathered complimentary totals that were led by the 1,589 ballots given J. Herbert Weikert for tax collector.

The voting in the burgess race in the borough follows by wards and precincts.

Other Returns
S. Richard Eisenhart, who was unopposed on either ticket for re-election as borough auditor, received a total of 1,565 votes.

Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder, unopposed for re-election, received 1,571 votes.

In the balloting for the two candidates for the two vacancies on the school board, George T. Raffensperger received 1,530 votes and Charles S. Black, 1,466. Mr. Black was running for re-election. Raffensperger will succeed Arthur E. Hutchison, who was not a candidate.

The three borough councilmen whose terms expire were re-elected for four-year terms. They are George D. March in the First Ward; L. D. Shearer, Second ward, and Joseph D. Kendlehart in the Third.

The first ward assessorship was won by Betty M. Lawver, who defeated Milton R. Remmel. Remmel lost the First precinct 144 to 182 but carried the Second 201 to 182. Mrs. Lawver has a margin of 19 votes over her Democratic opponent.

Here is the way Gettysburg voted on the four proposed amendments: Amendment No. 1: Yes, 712 and No, 66; Amendment No. 2: Yes, 289 and No, 376; Amendment No. 3: Yes, 450, and No, 107; and Amendment No. 4: Yes, 483, and No, 138.

VOTERS BACK
"GOOD ROADS"

Adams countians gave strong backing to the first or "good roads" amendment on Tuesday's ballot, approved the third and fourth but turned thumbs down on the second proposed amendment which would make sheriffs eligible to succeed themselves in office.

The first amendment which would require all motor funds to be used solely for the development of transportation facilities received an okay from 2,775 countians while only 322 voted "no" on that proposal. Gettysburgians voted 712 to 66 in favor of adoption of the amendment.

The only proposed constitutional change that failed to win the support of voters in this county was the second, dealing with the sheriff's office. Countians said "no" to the tune of 1,442 to 974.

They supported the third proposed amendment involving the election board members by a vote of 1,453 to 592; and voted their approval of the fourth amendment which would authorize a $50,000,000 bond issue for public works by a count of 1,578 to 734.

Of the 7,988 countians who cast ballots, few more than a third bothered to mark the sections of their ballots dealing with the amendments. The first amendment, which got the biggest vote, was marked by only 3,097 voters.

Republicans Top
Votes For Judge

Adams county Republicans outdid the Democrats Tuesday in heaping complimentary votes upon Judge W. C. Sheely in his unopposed campaign for re-election as president judge.

Judge Sheely, who is a Democrat, received 3,500 votes from his own party members and 3,944 votes from Republicans.

The GOP votes given the judge outnumbered those received by several Republican candidates in the balloting.

SPRING SERVED
AS 1ST SOURCE
OF TOWN WATER
SAYS SPEAKER

Gettysburg's "vanished industries" were described among other phases of the life of this community in the late nineteenth century by Dr. Stewart for members of the Adams County Historical society at their November meeting at the court house Tuesday evening.

Completing reminiscences begun at the October session of the society, the society's president spoke specially of a peculiarly local type of architecture used in residences here and in the construction of many homes along Baltimore street as well as in other parts of the town.

Recalling episodes in the life of the "Baltimore street gang" of boys of which he was a member, Doctor Stewart declared that Charles W. Myers, veteran Western Maryland freight agent here, "was pitching curved balls in a day when 19 out of every 20 persons said it couldn't be done."

The architecture used here and not found anywhere else by Doctor Stewart is typified today by the residence of the Misses Lott along the east side of Baltimore street at the crest of Baltimore hill, he said.

Fire Buckets Mandatory

The speaker talked at length of the development of the town's water supply with a spring at the Dobbin house serving as the first source of supply in a day when most of the town continued to get its water from wells and rain barrels. He made reference also to the development of fire protection facilities here as the water supply improved from the time when a borough ordinance required two leather fire buckets be kept at each house in town.

Recounting industries which once flourished here and since have dwindled or disappeared, Doctor Stewart listed these and gave interesting facts about many of them: tanning, carriage making, foundry, brick making, potteries, carpet making, stone cutting, brewing, harness making, cabinet making, lime kilns and the natural ice industry.

He made reference to contours of old streets here, water courses, and remarked that town streets a century or less ago depended on turnpike companies for the upkeep of the center third of the street with the remainder "resting in the lap of God."

Effects of Battle

Doctor Stewart gave particular attention to the effects of the battle of Gettysburg. "The battle," he said, "had a most profound and far-reaching influence in the town's development. Subsequent development of railroads, hotels, tourist travel, the souvenir and livery businesses and the Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial association and finally the National Park were mentioned specially.

The "storm" here over the electric railway was reviewed and then Doctor Stewart said:

ORRTANNA MAN
IS GIVEN DFC

John J. Sneeringer, aviation machinist's mate, 1/C, U.S.N., Orrtanna, R. 2, has received the Distinguished Flying Cross for extraordinary achievement while participating in aerial flight.

The award, made by Rear Admiral F. D. Wagner, in the name of the President of the United States, was presented by Lt. Cmdr. W. L. Kauber, commanding officer, Patrol Bombing Squadron 71, in ceremonies in the Philippines.

Sneeringer, a graduate of Arendtsville Vocational high school, is the son of Mrs. Pearl Sneeringer, of Orrtanna.

His citation stated that the award was being presented for "distinguishing himself by extraordinary achievement while participating in aerial flight. He participated in 20 strikes and flights in an active combat area where enemy anti-aircraft was expected to be effective and where enemy aircraft patrols usually occur." He has previously received the Air Medal with 2 stars in lieu of additional similar awards.

JAPS BEAT AND STARVED COUNTY
MAN IN PRISON

Technical Sergeant Henry B. Pecher, prisoner of the Japanese for 40 months in which time a heart-breaking diet of work, beatings and starvation rations cut his weight by a third and brought him near death, speaks with an air of authority when he calls America "God's country."

Down to 112 pounds from a normal 175, a week before the end of the war, Pecher knew he and his fellow prisoners could not last much longer. He believes that in two months more than 75 percent of the Yankee prisoners in his camp would have died. "Even our guards were starving," Pecher declared, "and they always got more and better food than we did."

But ever since that great day when friendly Koreans brought word of the end of the war, followed soon by U. S. carrier planes that dropped food and medicine and an American flag, Pecher has been making rapid progress toward good health.

Awarded DFC, Purple Heart

At Valley Forge hospital where he is receiving treatment and a special diet for beri-beri, the only ailment remaining from his prison camp days, Sergeant Pecher on Monday received the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Purple Heart medal, the Good Conduct Medal and the Distinguished Unit badge.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Pecher, Fairfield R. D., had been notified some time ago that their son had been awarded these honors but actual presentation was delayed until his return. The soldier himself learned about the decorations only after he reached Valley Forge by plane from the West coast late last month.

On last Sunday he attended services at St. Mary's Catholic church in Fairfield with his parents and brothers and sisters—for the first time since he enlisted in the army (Please Turn to Page 6)

Consistorial Group
Will Banquet Here

The annual Consistorial conference of the Gettysburg area of Mercersburg Synod of the Evangelical Reformed church will be held at Trinity church here on Friday evening. The members of Zwingli Circle of the local church will serve a banquet to the men at 6:30 p. m.

Representatives from the consistories of churches in Hanover, Littlestown, Spring Grove, East Berlin, New Oxford, Arendtsville and Fairfield will be present. About 160 men are expected.

The address of the evening will be given by Roy Knouse of Silver Run, Md. Brief addresses will be made by the Rev. Roy Lambert, chairman of the Kingdom Service committee of the Synod, and Dr. Allan S. Meek on behalf of the World Service program of which he is the head. After the addresses there will be a period for discussion on vital subjects relating to the work of the church.

DIES WHEN GUN
FIRES IN FALL
FROM TRACTOR

Seaman First Class Earl J. Kunkle, 18, was accidentally shot to death by a discharge from his own gun while shooting rabbits from a tractor on his mother's farm near East Berlin Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. E. S. Stambaugh, York county coroner, said Kunkle, on 30-day leave from the Naval Receiving station at Miami, Fla., apparently lost his balance as he stood on the tractor to fire at a rabbit. His left foot became caught in the tractor, flinging him toward the ground and his shotgun was discharged, the coroner said he believed.

The blast struck his neck, severing his jugular vein and windpipe.

The tragedy was discovered by his brother, Paul, 24, who was hunting in the same field but some distance away. Paul summoned Dr. Eugene Elgin, East Berlin, who found the sailor beyond medical aid.

Cutting Wheat

The young sailor was shooting at rabbits with a single gauge shotgun while using the tractor to cut old wheat. He had bagged one rabbit and fired at several others before the tragedy occurred, the coroner said he learned.

Besides his brother, Paul, the victim also leaves his mother, Mrs. Garcia Kunkle; two sisters, Mrs. Lester M. Doyle, Hanover, and Mrs. Victor Altland, Spring Grove R. D.; five other brothers, Cpl. John H. Kunkle, Pine Camp, N. Y.; Seaman First Class Edward Kunkle, serving in the Pacific; Rev. R. R. Kunkle, Valley City, N. D.; Cpl. Mervin R. Kunkle, serving in Italy, and Coxswain Elmer M. Kunkle, serving in the Pacific.

The victim's mother lives on a farm owned by Jesse Bechtel, located in Paradise township near Eisenhart's school.

FURNITURE MEN
ATTEND CLINIC
IN GETTYSBURG

Approximately 75 furniture manufacturers, heads of shipping departments, railroad officials and claim representatives of Southern Pennsylvania and Maryland, and representatives of the official classification committee, the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, traffic managers and packing materials representatives, took part today in a "furniture better packing" meeting and clinic at the Gettysburg furniture factories' show-rooms.

The meeting was sponsored by the York County Furniture Manufacturers Association, in conjunction with the National Furniture Traffic Conference, Inc., and the Association of American Railroads. Meetings have been held in Chicago, Indianapolis and Evansville, Ind. A similar meeting was held in Jamestown Monday and one will be held in New York City in January. Similar meetings will also be held in southern furniture centers.

Top Officials Here

Among top officials here for the meeting were Russell S. Wehler, secretary of the York County Furniture Manufacturers Association; R. F. Bohman, president, National Furniture Traffic Conference, Inc.; A. L. Green, special representative, Association of American Railroads; and J. C. McCarthy, secretary of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, which is taking an important part in these better packing meetings. M. C. Jones, general manager of the three local furniture factories and vice president of the National Furniture Manufacturers Association, Chicago, was host.

The meeting was for the purpose of bringing about closer cooperation between railroads and furniture shippers, its object being through educational means to improve the packing, stowing and handling of furniture to reduce to a minimum damage in transit.

Rates Threatened

The continual increase in freight claims payments by railroads on new furniture is a matter of grave concern to both the railroads and the manufacturers, it was pointed out, with the warning that the trend must be changed for the better without delay if the favorable furniture freight rate structure is to be maintained.

The meeting, in addition to acquainting those who attended with existing conditions and what is hoped to be accomplished in this regard, also pointed the way toward a solution of the problem.

As a part of today's program, packed furniture which had been shipped by manufacturers to the Gettysburg factories was inspected to determine good points as well as bad of each package. Manufacturers had been instructed to pack the shipments in normal way.

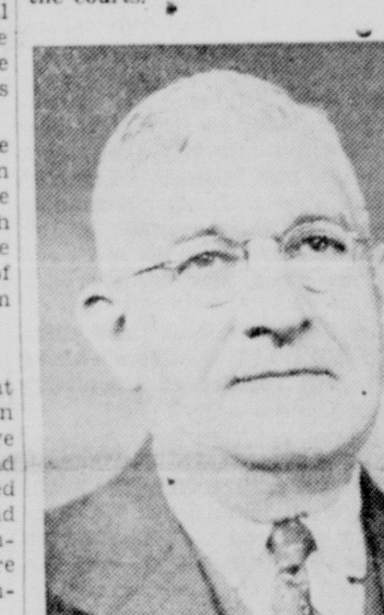

Luncheon was served at the Hotel Gettysburg.

Republicans Take County's Only Two
Contested Offices

Election
Winners

Mrs. Emma E. Sheffer, clerk of the courts.

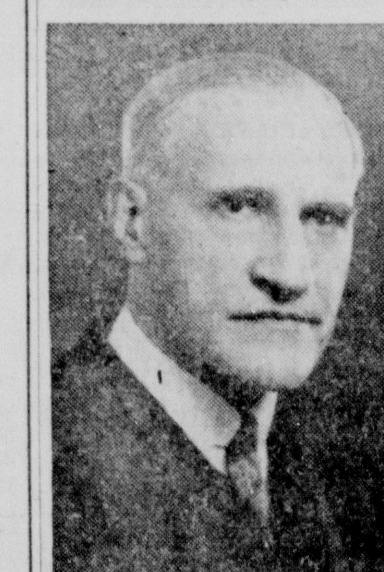

D. C. Stallsmith, county treasurer.

A. Dale Knouse, associate judge.

Mervin I. Rice, jury commissioner.

John C. Arnold, judge of the Superior Court.

Weather Forecast

Continued fair and mild tonight and Thursday.

Adams county Republicans marched off with the only two contested county offices in Tuesday's voting by electing Mrs. Emma E. Sheffer, Gettysburg Republican, to a four-year term as clerk of the courts and naming Donald C. Stallsmith, also a Gettysburg Republican, to the county treasurer's post.

Mrs. Sheffer topped her Democratic opponent by 557 votes when the unofficial tabulation was finished at 8 o'clock this morning, 12 hours after the polls closed. Bernard Bra-shers, New Oxford Democrat and a discharged Marine veteran of combat duty in the Pacific, garnered 3,653 votes and Mrs. Sheffer, 4,210.

"Don" Stallsmith won the county treasurer's post with a margin of 400 votes over Chester E. Mehring, Gettysburg Democrat. The totals were Stallsmith, 4,054, and Mehring, 3,654.

Set Precedent

Margins of both of the GOP candidates were regarded as "safe" on the basis of the unofficial tabulation. About 140 military ballots have been issued in this county but they will not be tabulated until the official count is made. The official computation of election results begins Friday at noon.

In electing Mrs. Sheffer as clerk of the courts, the Republicans set a precedent for she is the first woman ever elected to any county office. She was appointed to the office after her husband, Howard Sheffer, died eight months after beginning a four-year term as clerk. Mrs. Sheffer's appointment ran only through this year, half of the term for which her husband had been elected.

Fewer than half of the eligible voters in Adams county cast ballots Tuesday. Court house records today disclosed that 7,988 ballots were cast. A total of 16,695 men and women were eligible to vote.

GOP Jurists Win

State GOP candidates for the Superior Court carried the county by from 500 to 1,000 votes but trailed Mrs. Sheffer in polling the largest number of votes for a contested office.

Judge Sheely polled a complimentary vote of 7,444 as he formally was elected to a second ten-year term on the Adams-Fulton bench as president judge. He was unopposed on both tickets.

Associate Judge A. Dale Knouse also won re-election without opposition. His vote totaled 7,208 including 3,321 Democratic and 3,887 Republican votes.

PASTORS HEAR OF RED CROSS
WELFARE WORK

Fourteen members of the Adams County Ministerial association met on Monday, for a luncheon meeting at the Marine restaurant. The president, the Rev. Nevin Frantz, presided.

Miss Margaret McMillan, Adams County Red Cross secretary, presented to the members some of the problems of family welfare which the Red Cross is forced to face in dealing with service men and veterans. The association voted to stand ready to aid as a group and as individual pastors in any way possible. It was suggested that cases be referred to the clergymen most closely associated with the family.

Release time for religious instruction was considered at some length. It was voted that the pastoral members of the joint Ministerial and Schoolman's committee contact the pastors of the several communities, to get their reaction, interest, possible plans for their community, and suggestions for county cooperation.

Pastors appointed to the above committee by the president of the association are as follows: The Rev. D. F. Ehlman, Rev. Floyd Carroll, Rev. Dr. R. R. Gresh, Rev. G. S. Stoneback, and Rev. Nevin Frantz. The group also voted to sponsor an afternoon and evening conference on Russia and International Policy on December 4, at which time two leading lecturers and writers on Russia will appear, William Chamberlain and Jerome Davis.

WORLD POWER COLLABORATION IS ADVOCATED

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

There is encouragement for peace and international cooperation to be found in Russian Foreign Minister Molotov's speech marking the 28th anniversary of the Red Revolution. Generalissimo Stalin didn't address his people on this big day as he had been expected, although he was reported to be in Moscow and looking brown and fit after his vacation in the Black Sea area. However, Molotov did a workmanlike and constructive job which seems likely to increase his stature both at home and abroad.

The foreign minister offered criticism of some Allies policies in firm though moderate language, but the average person probably will find the high-light in his call for international collaboration. One likes to look on this as the key-note of his address, especially in view of the sharp differences which have arisen among the Big Three in recent weeks.

Need Collaborations

The important point about collaboration is that it isn't a one-man thing. Just as it takes two or more to make a fight, so it takes two or more for collaboration—and that's as true of nations as it is of individuals. So it's a good sign to see the term "collaboration" crop up in these dire days, and here is what Molotov says about it:

"Only by the joint efforts of the three powers (Russia, Britain and America) who carried the burden of the war can we secure the victories of the democratic countries over Fascism. Only such collaboration can promote success in the work of the new international organization for lasting peace."

Expressions of good intentions are not sufficient for this. Such intentions must be proved in ability to carry out this type of collaboration in the interests of all the peace-loving states."

Russian Pledge

Then Molotov offers this pledge: "The Soviet Union has been and will continue to be a reliable bulwark in the defense of peace and the security of the peoples, and is ready to prove this, not in words but in deeds."

The atomic bomb is, of course, a bone of very considerable contention and Moscow is insisting on knowing all the facts. Molotov declared there should be "no secrecy" about the bomb.

Undoubtedly the atomic bomb presents a problem which will have to be ironed out in the interest of international relations.

One of Molotov's high peace notes came when he said that the failure of the recent London conference of foreign ministers was a warning of pitfalls ahead, and then added:

"But difficulties arose before, too. The coalition, however, always found a solution in the interests of all."

GOP JURISTS GO TO HIGH COURT

Philadelphia, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Republican organization elected its two Superior Court candidates with impressive majorities in off-year elections yesterday but failed in an all-out fight to regain power in the Democratic stronghold of Pittsburgh.

GOP incumbents W. Heber Dithrich and John C. Arnold led Democratic challengers A. Marshall Thompson and John Morgan Davis by more than 175,000 in almost complete returns in the Superior Court race.

In Philadelphia, the Keystone state's other big metropolitan area, the GOP made a clean sweep of city and county administrative offices, defeating Democratic City Controller Robert C. White, who had held the post 10 years.

The vote generally was light across the state with interest centered mostly in local contests and issues. Leaders of both parties, however, studied results for a possible clue of trends for next year's important election when a governor and a United States Senator must be chosen.

Opening Of Court Delayed To Tuesday

With Monday scheduled to be observed as Armistice Day and a full holiday at the court house, it was announced today that the opening of the November term of court has been postponed from Monday morning until Tuesday at 9:30 a. m. when court trials will begin.

The grand jury will meet Thursday and desertion and non-support hearings are slated for Friday.

It was announced this morning that John P. Butt, Esq., has been appointed by the court to defend Burke C. Scott, 16-year-old Lattimore township boy who will face trial here next week for the murder of his father, Warwick Scott. The boy has been a prisoner at the county jail since the shooting last month.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

ETERNAL

The trees are almost bare.
And gray the skies and cold.
The signs are everywhere
The year is growing old.

The songster birds have flown
Where still the air is warm.
As if they'd surely known
Storm soon would follow storm.

Peeny and phlox and rose
In cold earth sleeping lie—
Even as slumber those Still missed as time goes by.

The year is growing old,
But still to faith we cling.
In spite of storm and cold,
Eternal is the spring.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MULTIPLE PEOPLE—

Walt Whitman once exclaimed that he was immense—that he contained multitudes! I read an interesting statement about Shakespeare recently. It said that his characters were so true and real, and that he understood human nature so perfectly that "he was not a man, but a continent!"

The best in us all is inherited or borrowed from scores of others. We are in fact multiple people. Unconsciously we take upon ourselves the attributes of others and imitate from the great storehouse of all humanity and nature.

It is well that we come to realize the full significance of influence. We can hardly make a move or think a thought without furnishing food for influence. Books and people have influenced the world from the time of creation, and in all nature are facts and truths that have made inspiring books and changed the course of many a life.

In our bodies are all the elements that sleep within the earth. How truly do we belong to—Mother Earth! How happy we are when walking upon her soil and breathing the fragrance of her breath as emanating from flower, tree and the soil. How fresh and stimulating the smell of her winds and rains.

I look upon a night sky, packed with brilliant stars, and wonder at them anew each time, and yet there is not a single star in that vast expanse of beauty and mystery so significant as one human being! Is us all are all the stars, all the wonders, all the mysteries, all the unsolved riddles of the Universe. We are multiple people. The fact should spur us on. Life itself is significant.

A really notable task is handed to us when we are given life. The supreme task for us, however, lies in our ability to handle it aright, and with courage. Our lives keep multiplying for us, increasingly, as we give to others, as we contribute to their happiness, and as we live the multitudes that are of us so much a part.

Quit Draft Or End Selective Service

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—Senator Revercomb (D-W.Va.) said today that unless the army and navy quit drafting men "this week" congress should proceed immediately to end Selective Service itself.

Revercomb, a member of the Senate military committee, told a reporter figures show that the draft—which took millions of men into service—can now roll to a dead stop without impairing occupation forces.

This comment was in amplification of a Senate speech in which he said the voluntary enlistment program is getting all the men the army and navy need. Revercomb added on the floor that unless the services act promptly, "there will be legislation offered."

"You recall that President Truman fixed the number of draft calls per month at 50,000 in order not to delay the return of soldiers who have served overseas," he said in the interview.

"Now, it is very patent that volunteers are far exceeding the Selective Service number. It is a matter of reasoning, a matter of logical deduction."

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and
The Gettysburg Times

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Most Sweeping G.O.P. Victory:
(By Associated Press) New York, Nov. 3—One of the most sweeping Republican victories in party history today stood recorded for Senator Harding for president and a Republican Congress by a tremendous and unparalleled plurality.

Senator Harding's victory in what Governor Cox, Ohio candidate, and other Democratic leaders and many Republicans hailed as the referendum on the League of Nations, was impressive in the absence of final figures to swell the tide of the huge plurality today. Harding has assurance of 329 votes in the electoral college as against 147 for Governor Cox.

Senator Harding's running mate is Governor Coolidge, of Massachusetts.

Women Appear in Doves to Vote:
Seizing the opportunity to cast their first ballots for president the women of Gettysburg turned out in great numbers on Tuesday and at noon were almost equalling the men in two of the three wards.

Distinction for being the first women to vote goes to Mrs. Howard Hartzell in the First Ward, Mrs. Kate Nixon in the Second, and Miss Lily Dougherty in the Third.

Quaker Valley Dance: Fifty-five guests were entertained on Saturday night by Miss Eleanor Prickett, Quaker Valley, at a delightful masquerade dance given in the Prickett apple packing house.

Red Cross Roll Call Planned:
Plans to make the fourth annual roll call of the American Red Cross in Adams county a banner event were discussed Monday afternoon at the meeting of the executive committee in the Red Cross room in the Court house. The report of Miss Margaret McMillan, secretary, was read. It showed the rapid strides the home service work had taken during the year.

Those present at the meeting were H. T. Weaver, chairman; Mrs. Donald P. McPherson, Mrs. William Arch McClean, Mrs. Clyde B. Stover, Miss Annie Horner, Miss Anna Reck, Mrs. Zinn and Miss Margaret McMillan.

The roll call this year extends from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

Roosevelt Votes: (By Associated Press) Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 2—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for vice president, voted at 10:45 in the third district in the town of Hyde Park, in the town hall.

Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Jane Roosevelt the candidate's mother, accompanied him to the polls and cast their ballots following his.

Against School Clubs: During a recent meeting of the Gettysburg School Board the members of that body went on record as disapproving high school clubs composed of either boys or girls from the institution. Too much attention to clubs, it is believed by members of the board, conflicts with studies.

Joseph Himes Elected: Complete returns indicate the election of Joseph H. Himes, son of Mrs. Martha Himes, of New Oxford, by the most overwhelming majority ever given to a congressional candidate from the Canton, Ohio, district.

G.O.P. Celebration: The Republicans of Adams county will celebrate the victory of Senator Harding, Dr. Eugene Elgin, Edward S. Brooks and Dr. Edward Long in Gettysburg Friday night, November 12, according to a decision reached during a meeting of the Adams County Republican Club in its Baltimore street rooms, Thursday night.

Pretty Wedding at Roberts Home: The home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roberts, of near Arendtsville, was the scene of a beautiful wedding Wednesday afternoon, when their daughter, Mary, became the bride of Sherman E. Taylor, of Toledo, Ohio. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. B. Lady, assisted by Rev. T. C. Hesson.

League Decides to Build Y.M.C.A.:
Erection of a proposed Weidensall Y.M.C.A. building at College is planned to commence next spring.

Definite decision to that effect was reached by the executive committee of the General Woman's League of Pennsylvania College during a session in the Hoffman Hotel here on Wednesday. The executive committee is composed of Mrs. W. E. Strouse, Mrs. John P. Dapp, Mrs. L. E. Kinch, Mrs. W. A. Granville, Mrs. Luther Kuhlman, Mrs. Anna Ritter, Mrs. S. D. Shull, Mrs. A. R. Aukerman, Mrs. J. T. Huttie, Miss Maria Baum and Mrs. Percy Hoover.

Personal: Mrs. Ellis Burgess has returned to her home in Pittsburgh after visiting Mrs. William C. Storrick, Lincoln avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Choate, of Framingham Center, Massachusetts, announce the birth of a daughter, Mrs. Rudolph Rosenstengel and son John, York street, have returned home after a extended visit with relatives in Kansas and Texas.

Miss Mary Redding and Miss Katie Shultz, of Baltimore street,

2 APPOINTED JUDGES LOSE IN ELECTIONS

Harrisburg, Nov. 7 (AP)—Two Republican judges named by Governor Martin lost to Democrats as Pennsylvania voters elected 38 county judges, 18 without opposition, in the commonwealth's off-year election.

Defeated were Judges Emmitt J. McDaniel of the Fayette county Common Pleas court and Harold W. Helfrich of the Lehigh county Common Pleas, both Republicans.

In another contest of state-wide interest, Senator John F. Cox, Democrat, defeated Judge Alexander C. Tener, Republican, of the Allegheny county Orphans court.

McDaniel was named to the bench only last Friday to fill the vacancy created by the death of President Judge H. S. Dumbauld of Fayette county. Judge Dumbauld lost a bid for re-election last June to H. Vance Cotton, Democrat, victor in yesterday's balloting.

In Lehigh county, Judge Helfrich, named by Martin in 1944 to succeed the late Judge Joseph E. Gehring, a Democrat, conceded the election of John H. Diefenderfer after the Democratic nominee took a 990 lead in returns from 67 out of 104 precincts.

Republican Winners
Republicans were victorious in Delaware, Erie and Snyder county judicial races.

E. Leroy Van Roden, who defeated incumbent Judge E. Wallace Chadwick last June, emerged easy victor over Albert J. Crawford, Jr., Democrat, for the Delaware county Orphans court judgeship.

Burton R. Laub, Republican, took a 1921 lead over Owen McIntosh Burns, Democrat, in returns from all but 12 of 113 districts in the Common Pleas court race there.

L. C. Buffington, Republican, defeated Clayton E. Leach, Democrat, for Snyder county associate judge. In Greene county, however, John Inghram Hook, Democrat, defeated Frank Throckmorton for Common Pleas court.

Sixteen sitting jurists were nominees of both Republicans and Democrats and two other judicial candidates—not now on the bench—were unopposed. They were Edmund C. Winger, Republican, for Franklin county Common Pleas court and Grant Myerley, Republican, for Union county associate judge.

6 Face Contests
Five Philadelphia judges were re-elected by endorsement of both parties, but in Allegheny county all six sitting jurists faced contests.

In addition to Dumbauld and Chadwick, voters last June rejected re-election bids of Judges Challen W. Waychoff, Democrat, Greene county Common Pleas court, and Paul N. Schaeffer, Democrat, Berks county Common Pleas court.

Judges elected included (x-incumbent): Philadelphia—Municipal court, x-Leopold C. Glass, Dem. and Rep.; Orphans court, x-Charles Klein and x-Lewis H. Van Dusen, Dem. and Rep.; Common Pleas court, x-Thomas D. Finletter and Frank Smith, Dem. and Rep.

HENRY FORD WINS
Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 7 (AP)—Henry Ford is the new mayor of Kalamazoo—but his business is law and not automobiles.

Attorney Ford, no relation to the Dearborn Fords, polled the greatest number of votes to elect seven members of the city council. As a result, he succeeds to the mayoralty, left Saturday for Washington, where they have secured employment.

Miss Margaret McIlhenny, of Washington, D. C., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. James McIlhenny, of Knoxville.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pape, of Mt. Washington, Md., are visiting friends here for several days.

Edgar Hamilton, of Harrisburg, is visiting at his home on Carlisle street.

Z. O. Fiscus and Daniel Skelly, of Baltimore, spent the week-end in town.

Reading Truckers Remain On Strike

Reading, Pa., Nov. 7 (AP)—The failure to get raise increases today caused 500 workers of 26 Reading trucking firms to stay away from their jobs for a second day.

Robert Shell, representative of Local 439, teamsters union (AFL), said the companies—negotiating a new contract—refused to grant pay boosts.

Shell said 12 other trucking companies, however, had given employees wage increases of $4 a week.

LAWRENCE SEES ELECTION VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

Pittsburgh, Nov. 7 (AP)—Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence at 56 today became mayor-elect of this great industrial city where he got his start in "politics" at the age of 14 as an office boy for one of the town's Democratic leaders.

By winning, the Democrats retained control of their major stronghold in Pennsylvania which had been threatened by a vigorous Republican campaign.

The loser was Robert N. Waddell, 47, an insurance executive and one time football coach at Carnegie Tech.

Returns from 421 precincts out of 425 in the city gave: Lawrence, 110,721; Waddell, 98,022. Lawrence, former secretary of the Commonwealth, greeted his election with the statement:

Victory Conceded
"I interpret my election as a vote of confidence in me and a vote of approval for my program. "I have not been elected mayor of a political party. I have been elected mayor of a great city and all its varied peoples."

Waddell conceded early this morning and congratulated Lawrence on his "fine victory." He added:

"I shall continue to cooperate toward better government."

Lawrence campaigned on a seven-point program, stressing major civic improvements, improved labor-management relations and efforts to bring new industry to Pittsburgh.

Waddell had attacked the record of the present administration at city hall, charged that Lawrence had been the "real mayor" for nine years and demanded improvements in city service.

First Elective Job
This is the first time Lawrence has been elected to public office. He once tried to become an Allegheny county commissioner but was defeated. He held appointive offices as registration commissioner, collector of internal revenue and secretary of the Commonwealth during the administration of Gov. George H. Earle.

He has indicated he will resign as Democratic state chairman to give full time to his city duties. Swept into office with him were five Democratic city councilmen, Joseph A. McCordie, Thomas J. Gallagher, Fred W. Weir, Walter R. Demmler and A. L. Wok.

10 TOWNS FAVOR SUNDAY FILMS
Harrisburg, Nov. 7 (AP)—Communities voting on the question of allowing Sunday motion pictures split almost evenly with 12 places opposing and 10 favoring Sabbath day shows in yesterday's election.

Steelton, a suburb of Harrisburg, favored Sunday shows after church interests won a court fight to keep the issue off the ballot at the state's capital city. Two other nearby communities, Lemoyne and Middletown, turned Sunday movies down.

Other communities voting in favor of Sunday shows included Catawissa, Columbia county; Danville, Montour county; Everett, Bedford county; Slatington, Lehigh county; Williamsport and Jersey Shore, Lycoming county and Selinsgrove, Snyder county.

All the communities reporting now prohibit Sunday shows.

MAYORAL RACES DISPLAY MIXED PARTY RESULTS

(By The Associated Press)
In Pennsylvania there was a mixed picture of party strength in the mayoral elections.

At Scranton, the Democrats upset Republican rule by electing their candidate, James T. Hanlon by less than 400 votes over the incumbent, Howard J. Snowden, who was seeking to break precedent by winning a second consecutive term.

By contrast in Allegheny county, McKeesport turned out the only Democratic mayor it ever had, Frank Buchanan, ex-school teacher, who lost to Charles A. Kinkaid, tinplate mill executive.

The Republicans rolled up surprising majorities in McKeesport and neighboring Duquesne, where CIO-backed Elmer J. Maloy, a Democrat, was beaten by Frank Koprivier, Jr., Republican, a councilman.

Other Returns
The list of newly elected mayors in the state follows:

Pittsburgh—David L. Lawrence, Democrat.

Scranton, James T. Hanlon, Democrat.

Meadville—Dr. George H. Hayward, Democrat. (Hayward was a Republican nominated by a write-in vote on the Democratic ticket in the primary.)

Pottsville—Claude A. Ford, Republican incumbent.

Pittston—Frank Horan, Republican.

Hazleton—Clarence Lonzer, Republican.

Corry—J. Fred Kinley, Republican.

Connellsville—Abe Daniel, Republican, incumbent.

McKeesport—Charles A. Kinkaid, Republican, incumbent.

New Kensington—W. C. Walley, Republican, incumbent.

Lancaster—James G. Bohlender, Republican, incumbent.

Monessen—Hugo J. Parente, Democrat.

70,000 CHIANG TROOPS BEATEN BY COMMUNISTS

Chungking, Nov. 7 (AP)—Chinese Communists declared today their forces had decisively defeated 70,000 government troops in fighting along the Peiping-Hankow railway during which they recaptured the rail Hopeh province junction of Tzehsien on October 25.

The Communists said, the government forces consisted of eight divisions, including three "equipped with American arms and noted for their combat powers."

The Communist claims, if true, meant that the movement of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's armies along the Peiping-Hankow railroad toward North China and Manchuria had been smashed.

The Communists said their "victory" over the government forces along the Peiping-Hankow railroad was scored against troops belonging to the Eighth, Thirteenth and Fortieth Armies.

The Communists asserted that most of the Central government troops involved capitulated without their arms. They said that high government officers who surrendered included Gen. Ma Fa Wu, deputy commander-in-chief of the 11th war zone; Gen. Sung Yen-tan, chief-of-staff of the 11th war zone.

Another official statement from Yen-an demanded the arrest and punishment of "engineering an offensive by 800,000 troops against the liberated areas" dominated by the Communists.

O'DWYER WINS; DETROIT BEATS CIO CANDIDATE

(By The Associated Press)
Democrat William O'Dwyer swamped two major opponents and won election as mayor of New York City yesterday.

His vote far exceeded the aggregate of his opposition. It prompted Democratic leaders to see good things ahead for the party in the state and nationally. They saw in it a decline in the political fortunes of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Republicans withheld comment for the time being.

In the second municipal scrap that captured more than local attention in yesterday's first postwar voting, Mayor Edward J. Jeffries was elected to a fourth term in Detroit's hot non-partisan mayoralty race against Richard T. Frankenstein, CIO union leader.

Frankenstein had the backing of the CIO's Political Action Committee.

Other Contests

Democrats elected these mayors elsewhere: David L. Lawrence, national committeeman for Pennsylvania, in Pittsburgh; incumbent Thomas A. Burke at Cleveland, and Rep. James M. Curley for a fourth term, not consecutive, at Boston. The Curley victory was in a non-partisan race involving six registered Democrats.

Republicans won the mayoralties of Syracuse and Buffalo with Frank J. Costello and Bernard J. Dowd, respectively, but Democrats showed considerable strength in other up-state New York cities.

In the only major Congressional contest of the day—the 4th New Jersey District—Republicans retained control of the seat resigned by D. Lane Powers. Frank A. Mathews, Jr., organization GOP candidate, ran well ahead in a three man race. Frank S. Katzenbach, 3d, regular Democratic nominee, was second.

Virginia Governor

The 24th Illinois District also elected a Republican to Congress—Roy Clippinger—but he had no major opposition. Clippinger succeeds the late Rep. James D. Heidinger, Republican.

A Mathews victory in New Jersey would make the House line-up: Democrats, 241; Republicans, 191; American Labor, 1; Progressive, 1, vacancy (in New Mexico) 1.

In the only gubernatorial contest, Lieut. Gov. William M. Tuck was elected governor of Virginia by better than two to one over two opponents. He carried his ticket with him, including Lewis Preston Collins for lieutenant governor, and A. P. Staples, reelected as attorney general.

They measured off a mile (via jeep speedometer) and started Coolie Lee Wong trotting the distance, towing several hundred pounds of marine-manned rickshaw. . . . When they looked at the watch, it registered 4:58. . . . NOTE OF FRANKNESS

SHORTS AND SHELLS

The Orange Bowl, which plans to have an eastern team in the New Year's football game every year, starting this season, apparently is down to one candidate. Since Columbia declared itself out, the Miami scouts are looking to Holy Cross, provided Koslowski and Co. gets past Temple.

LAST LAUGH

After the Oklahoma Aggies' Bob Fenimore came out of a hospital to run wild against Texas Aggies, Drumbeater Otis Wild reported hearing this conversation in the stands: Fan No. 1—"What's that story about Fenimore being sick?" Fan No. 2—"He was sick; he was three days in the hospital."

No. 1—"My gosh, gimme the name of his doctor?"

Absent Veteran Snares Election

Pittsburgh, Nov. 7 (AP)—A Democrat who is still in the navy, Seaman Andrew M. Kocurkovic, was the winner today in a special election to fill a vacancy in the sixth assembly district of Allegheny county. He defeated Martin P. Burke, Republican.

The seaman will finish the term of the late John J. Baker, who had defeated Burke previously.

JAPS BEAT AND

June 1, 1939. Soon after enlistment he went to Hawaii for what was to have been a two-year tour of duty in the Pacific but it turned out to be nearly six years.

With Famed 19th Bomb Group

He arrived home on his first visit last Friday evening and Saturday morning he and his four brothers went hunting on the Pecher farm in Liberty township. The sergeant came home with four squirrels although he hadn't used a gun for more than three years.

As a member of the now-famous 19th Bombardment Group whose struggles to hold back the Japs in the Pacific with a steadily dwindling supply of planes and men were recounted for the world in the stirring tale, "Queens Die Proudly," Pecher went through the toughest days of the Pacific war.

The crash that led about two months later to Pecher's being taken captive by the Japs occurred March 12 off the coast of Mindanao when two Flying Forts were sent from Australia to Mindanao to rescue General MacArthur and his party who had escaped from Corregidor by PT boat.

On MacArthur Rescue Mission

Pecher's ship crashed in Iligan Bay, killing two of his seven crewmen. The other ship found the airfield in the darkness, landed, took aboard the Pacific commander-in-chief and as many members of his party as it could carry and took off on the 1,600-mile hop to Australia.

But the war memories of Sergeant Pecher go back to Pearl Harbor Day when the Jap bombers struck Clark Field about noon and destroyed every ship there. Thirteen Forts, that had been moved to Del Monte Field on Mindanao as a precautionary measure before the crisis that every Yankee in the Pacific knew was close, were the Group's only planes to escape destruction that day.

Pecher had been a ground crew maintenance man but soon he was going on bombing missions as an aerial gunner in the diminishing supply of B-17s. They bombed Jap targets from Del Monte Field until the Japs strafed the field and put three more B-17s out of the war. The remaining ships took off at night on the 1,600-mile hop to Australia and used a coastal base for shuttle-bombing over Davao but that soon proved too costly with no replacements coming from the States.

Eluded Japs At Broome

They moved to Java and had been there a month before the first B-17s came from the States with new crews. Advanced bases in Borneo, the Celebes and Sumatra were used until the Dutch East Indies fell in March.

Then the 19th Group used the Jap pearling village of Broome on the northwest coast of Australia as a stopover base on bombing missions from Melbourne. But they sighted Jap carriers approaching and the Yanks pulled out of Broome by night. Next day Jap carrier planes laid waste the base and killed all personnel left behind. The 19th, that was then down to seven or eight planes out of a full Group, was called to Melbourne for reorganization.

Crashed In Bay

It was there when MacArthur called for planes to be sent to Mindanao to carry him on the second and last leg of his escape trip from Luzon. Two B-17s were assigned to the MacArthur rescue mission and Pecher was aerial gunner on one of them. The flight was made by night to escape detection by the Japs.

When the big bombers reached Mindanao, the landing field lights were not turned on and the B-17s dropped to low levels in an effort to make out the contours of the familiar coastline and thus locate the airfield. Pecher's ship caught a wave and crashed in the water but the other Fort got in and carried MacArthur to Australia that night.

When Pecher's ship crashed, the radioman, whose duty it was to release the life rafts, was killed as was the life rafts. A jammed door prevented Pecher from reaching the radioman's compartment to free the rafts and he followed other survivors out of the window scant seconds before the heavy ship sank.

Fate Of Three Unknown

With several gashes in his head and his nose broken, Pecher swam for six hours and reached shore as did the other survivors, all of whom had been more or less seriously injured. They all wore life vests that helped keep them afloat.

Of the five men who made that six-hour swim, two are known to have survived the war. Pecher and Sgt. Wally Hewston, of Lake Placid, N. Y., stayed together during the first year of imprisonment and met again in the Philippines after liberation. Pecher never heard what fate befell the three others.

They reached shore about dawn on March 12 and the first Philippines who saw them did not go to their rescue, fearing they were Japs. One Filipino scout came out in a boat, found the swimmers were white men and helped them ashore, got food for them and helped them find a way to a hospital at Iligan by patrol wagon. After a week in the hospital, Pecher was able to be about and went to Del Monte Field where he and 1,200 other Yanks who had been left behind spent all their time working on the bombed-out airfield in the hope that U. S. planes might come to their rescue.

Filipinos Slain On March

But the Japs came first—about 50,000 strong—on May 10, landing on two sides of the island and trapping the 1,200 Americans and many Filipinos. Obeying the orders of the commanding colonel—which that officer had received by radio from General Wainwright on Corregidor—the trapped men surrendered without resistance.

Then began a 50-mile march to Camp Malabali. No Americans fell out in spite of the fact that they were without food and only "wild water" for the entire march but Filipinos dropped exhausted and were bayoneted or shot by the Jap guards. The Jap guards had water but kept it for themselves.

Drinking from streams soon gave many of the prisoners dysentery. "I got it too, and pretty bad, but I got over it," Pecher related. When the camp was reached the prisoners got two rice meals a day (about 12 ounces) and soup made of sweet potato tops boiled in water. There was no salt or other seasoning.

Voyage Of Horrors

On September 2 there began for Sergeant Pecher one of the most terrible experiences of his 40 months in Jap hands—a boat trip from Mindanao to Tokyo in a stinking Jap freighter jammed with 1,800 sick, poorly-clad prisoners.

After the last 1,500 prisoners were brought aboard the unmarked and unescorted ship from Bilbid prison at Manila, the Americans were too crowded to sit or lie down. "There must have been 300 of us jammed in a hold 20 feet square," Pecher recalled grimly. He can't talk calmly about that trip. There was a little hard tack every day and some rice was passed around in buckets. "Some of the prisoners got some. Some didn't. The sick got no food and their bodies were dumped overboard. The men had diarrhea and there were no toilets. Many were barefooted with sores or injuries on their feet and legs. We were covered with lice."

The ship went first to Formosa and laid over there for 10 days because of a typhoon. When they started out again, the ship turned back "out of a clear sky," Pecher said, and went back to Formosa.

Torpedoes Bring Panic

When Formosa was left for the second time the ship was attacked by American submarines one day out. Panic swept the ship as the four torpedoes were sighted furrowing the waves toward the ship. "These torpedoes must have been coming about 40 miles an hour but it seemed like hours until the captain swung the ship and the tin fish just missed our stern," the sergeant said.

When Korea was reached, most of the prisoners were taken off by Pecher and several hundred others were taken to Kobe via the Inland Sea. They landed November 11. Then 350 prisoners were taken by train to Tokyo, placed in a prison camp along the waterfront in the suburbs and two days after their arrival went to work in Tokyo steel mills.

All types of jobs were assigned to the prisoners who worked daily from 7 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., marching the two miles to and from the mills daily. They had one day off about every 10 days. At first they got three rice meals daily, totalling about 750 grams. There were radishes cooked in water for soup and once in a while some carrots or potatoes. As the food supply grew worse, the rice stopped and there was boiled broom corn and barley that wasn't fit to eat. It offered almost no nourishment and was very indigestible. The prisoners kept losing weight and dietary diseases flourished. Rations steadily decreased. At first the guards got meat and fish but their fare also became poorer as the war went on.

Saw Fake Jap Photos

The prisoners never heard radio news but occasionally saw English editions of Tokyo papers that told of the "invasion of the United States" and showed pictures of Jap planes bombing Washington and New York. The Jap people believed these stories until the bombs started to shower on their own homeland when the stories of Jap victories in the United States disappeared from the Jap papers.

Some news of the war's progress came to the prisoners from friendly Koreans and it was through this channel they learned first of the war's end.

One news flash the Japs gave their prisoners promptly and with great gusto was the word of the death of President Roosevelt. The Japs staged great celebrations believing that PDR's death signalled the end of the war and a Jap victory.

Pecher Beaten Twice

Sergeant Pecher said he often saw Jap officers strike non-coms and those in turn had permission to beat the men under them. Many of the men set over the prisoners as guards were battle-shocked veterans or dope fiends and that situation added to the prisoners' troubles. "They just wouldn't listen to reason and didn't even pay any attention to the interpreters," Pecher declared.

But most of the mistreatment of the prisoners came from civilians while the guards stood by and looked on. Hundreds of instances of brutal treatment were witnessed by Pecher and he felt some first hand. He was beaten twice.

The first time was while working in a steel mill on a grinding machine. He walked outside for a piece of wood to repair the handle of the machine. As he returned to the plant with the wood he was struck across the head and shoulders by a civilian with a long section of pipe. The blow knocked him down. As he dizzily rose to his feet a second blow fell across his back with no sleep. Guards saw to it that no prisoner fell asleep on his feet. "I don't know now how we were able to do it," the sergeant said.

Japs Took Red Cross Boxes

It's second and more serious beating occurred in the winter time. He had gone to a furnace room before work to get warm and was a minute or two late reaching his post. Two civilians "worked me over with clubs and I was laid up for two weeks." However, he was required to work the remainder of that day with one arm hanging useless at his side. Pecher believes the beating burst a blood vessel in one arm for it was purple the next morning and he had fever. It was two weeks before he could work again.

Only a few Red Cross boxes reached the Yankee prisoners. Jap guards stole them and used their contents. Pecher recalls one instance in which two prisoners "stole" butter from a Red Cross package which had been taken by the Japs. They were caught.

In bitter cold weather, the prisoners were stripped and put into a hole out of doors and Japs poured cold water over them for 10 or 15 minutes. Then their hands were tied above them and they were beaten to insensibility. The pair were jailed and for the next two weeks they were beaten each night.

Starved Hospital Patients

The Japs also confiscated Red Cross medical supplies sent to the prisoners, he said, so that even in the hospital there was little medical treatment.

Pecher was sent to that hospital one time and lost 20 pounds in 10 days chiefly because the Japs gave no food to men who didn't work and the sick got almost nothing. He did get enough Red Cross medicine to cure his dysentery.

The Japs had their own cure for beri-beri and Pecher said he has seen Japs light bits of wood and burn the swollen beri-beri patients over the legs and arms as a "cure." Pecher said one man in his camp developed an infection in a burn on his foot received in that manner. There was no medicine and gangrene set in and the man died.

Ringside Seat For Tokyo's Death

Died prisoners were cremated and their remains placed in little white boxes with chanting, ceremony and incense that meant nothing to the prisoners who stood by.

Sergeant Pecher stayed at the steel mills until two months before the war ended and from the waterfront prison camp, they had a "ringside" seat for the great fire-bombings by the B-29s. Soon the steel mills had to close down for lack of water and electricity and the prisoners turned briefly to clearing debris.

It was then that the county soldier had his worst experience of his three years as a prisoner.

His Worst Experience

One day while they were working in the ruins of a burned out hospital in the Tokyo area, one American scrawled a big V on the wall. A Jap guard recognized the symbol and demanded to know who had put it there. He met silence and the punishment of the whole detail began.

There was no supper that night and the prisoners were forced to stand at attention the whole night with no sleep. Guards saw to it that no prisoner fell asleep on his feet. "I don't know now how we were able to do it," the sergeant said.

Moved Into Mountains

There was no breakfast next morning and the detail was put to work in stone quarries next day. Men collapsed from sheer fatigue and hunger and they were given a little rice soup at noon. For the second night they stood at attention without sleep and returned to the quarries in the morning. The third night they were sent to their barracks and there talking it over, the man who had scratched the "V" on the wall decided to "turn himself in" to save the others.

"Then they really worked out on him," Pecher said grimly. "They started at 2 a. m. and beat him unconscious. He was thrown in jail and beaten nightly and fed almost nothing. He already was suffering from beri-beri and how he lived I don't know."

As the B-29 poundings continued and great sections of Tokyo were completely burned out and electrical and water supplies were gone, the prisoners were moved 100 miles northwest into the mountains and other steel mills. They made the trip by railroad for the planes had not bombed rail targets.

Atom Bombs Scared Japs

The terrific shortage of food led the Japs to release the prisoners to forage in the hills for their own food. There was little to find and one prisoner died after eating a poisonous weed and then the other prisoners stopped their foraging.

The steel mills there soon were bombed too and the Koreans brought word of the atomic bombings at Hiroshima and Nagasaki some 600 miles away. The effect on the Japs was paralyzing, Pecher said. "They just stood around in knots talking and seemed scared to death."

A week after the Koreans brought word of the end of the war, the Japs gave them official notice. "They seemed to be in a trance," Pecher said. "The prisoners went wild without interference from the Japs."

Liberated Sept. 7

"We broke through the fences and into the fields where we dug up vegetables for food. One crowd of fellows brought in a horse and we butchered it there. It wasn't bad, a little sweeter and tougher than beef but it was the first meat of any amount we had had as prisoners. It was a year since we had had any and that was about 10 pounds for 150 men and was used in soup."

In a letter to his parents soon after liberation, Pecher had told how the Yankee carrier planes flew over the camp and dropped supplies and a flag. Old Glory was run up a pole and the prisoners stood at attention while a bugler played the Star Spangled Banner. "It was the biggest thrill of my life," Pecher declared.

Sergeant Pecher was liberated September 7. On American orders, the Japs took the prisoners to Tokyo where they passed into U. S. Army hands. Then the trip home by air began with a stopover in the Philippines and the west coast. Ambulance planes brought the men home as soon as they were able to travel after a few weeks of medical treatment and good food.

Couldn't Think Of Future

Asked if he ever gave up hope of being liberated, Pecher said: "No, but we didn't think much about that. Fellows that couldn't keep their minds off the future and what might happen to us when the Americans invaded Japan just went mad. Our thoughts were bent on ways of keeping alive from day to day."

Pecher said the prisoners were allowed to write brief censored letters home about four times a year. He made one recording for radio broadcast and his parents today have records of that broadcast made by radio listeners in this country. "We had to say what they wanted us to say or they wouldn't send the message," he observed.

In all his imprisonment Pecher received only one package from home. It came on the Gripsholm and arrived on February 10, 1944, his 25th birthday. It had been intended for Christmas by his parents. He received about 25 letters during his imprisonment. After the war, he was handed many others in Manila that the Japs had held up.

May Stay In Army

Now Sergeant Pecher is spending a month at the Valley Forge hospital during which time he will submit to a nose operation to correct an injury he suffered in the crash in March, 1942. He expects to spend most of his week-ends at home and has two weeks at Miami Beach ahead of him. Allowed to take two persons with him, he will be accompanied there by his mother and sister, Anna, who lives in Chambersburg.

Meanwhile his military service record is being compiled by the War Department. All of his prewar records were destroyed when a hangar burned in Java early in 1942.

The Stars and Stripes hung by the front door of the Pecher home when Henry came home last Friday evening.

While the War Department gets his war record together, Sergeant Pecher is inclined to stay in the service even though he is sure he could get a discharge if he asked. "Being a technical sergeant in Uncle Sam's Air Force isn't such a bad job, and the pay's pretty good too. I may stay in."

tor Stewart concluded by commenting upon the great turnover in family names here in the last century.

At the opening of the meeting Doctor Stewart congratulated Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh upon his election last Saturday as president of the Pennsylvania Historical Association and reported on sessions he attended as Harrisburg.

Reporting on a speaker who told of hundreds of folk tunes—both words and music—he had collected in southwestern Pennsylvania, Doctor Fortenbaugh asked members if they knew of any such songs being in use here.

To Place Markers
Doctor Stewart reported the state Federation of Historical societies has offered to place state markers at three historical sites in this county and the society helped compile this list of proposed sites: sign giving directions to the Steelman marker near Zora; the underground railroad stations at McAllister's mill and at the Wright house, an old frontier day fort near Arendtsville, several old churches, including Great Cone-wago Presbyterian, Cone-wago chapel and Rock chapel, the Philadelphia-Pittsburgh turnpike, the site of the Thaddeus Stevens house, Maria Furnace, Gettys Tavern and cross-roads, the Mary Jemison house, and the only Mason-Dixon crownstone remaining in its original position near Zora.

A number of historical items were donated to the society and acknowledged Tuesday.

Contributions include a number of articles from the Misses Dock including news clippings of the building of the Gettysburg-Petersburg turnpike and Thaddeus Stevens lore; copies of Anthony's history of the Battle of Hanover from the Hanover Elks; an old candlestick and snuffer from Doctor Stewart; a powder horn, wool cards and homespun stockings from Miss Ruth McIlhenny, and a history of the 138th Regiment of the Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry. Company G of that regiment was recruited in this county.

Welfare Group Plans
For Christmas Gifts

Plans for the distribution of Christmas gifts to children under the care of the Child Welfare Service were outlined at the monthly meeting of the advisory committee Tuesday evening in the office in the Murphy building. Dr. Dwight P. Putman, chairman, presided.

First names of children, their ages and a brief description of them, as well as suitable gifts, were given by Mrs. Elizabeth Grieb, executive secretary. Various committee members selected names to be submitted to their Sunday school classes or other organizations who will provide the presents.

Donations of good used toys will be appreciated by the committee and may be left at the office.

A sub-committee will be appointed on publicity to distribute information throughout the county as to kinds of homes needed. Another sub-committee will be appointed to map the annual plan.

The next meeting will be held Monday, December 3, instead of December 4 due to the Friends Service Committee meeting on the latter date.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Keller, Gettysburg R. 5, announce the birth of a son at the Warner hospital Tuesday afternoon.

SCHOOLS ASKED TO SELL BONDS FOR HOSPITALS

An appeal for participation in the Victory Loan drive was made today, and objectives of the new hospital unit theme, "Bring Him Back to Health," explained to schools of Adams county in letters which went out from Dr. Robert A. Bream, assistant superintendent and education chairman, to Adams county teachers.

For each $3,000 of bonds and stamps sold, a school may have its name and address placed on a bed in a veterans hospital, Doctor Bream said. The objectives of this drive are: To earn the right to fly the Minute Man victory flag for November and December, and to successfully complete an equipment campaign by December 25. A $200 Roosevelt memorial bond is being offered as an attraction in the drive.

Awards Promised
Awards for elementary school pupils include enrollment in the Junior Brigade for selling any type of bond, and a U. S. Treasury citation for selling 10 bonds to 10 persons. For high school pupils they are: Enrollment in the Honor Brigade for selling $100 worth of bonds, a service bar and star for selling six bonds to six persons, an additional star for the service bar for selling 10 bonds to 10 persons, and U. S. Treasury citation for selling 10 bonds to 10 persons.

Application blanks and bonds may be obtained from local banks, post-offices, rural mail carriers or sub-issuing offices.

Costs of hospital equipment range from 26 cents, which will buy sulfanilamide crystals, to $2,300 for a stationary X-ray machine. Bonds will purchase such other items as crutches, $1; penicillin, per treatment, $1.03; bandages, per dozen, $1.25; pajama suits, $2; bath robes, $2.75; convalescent suit, $3.50; hospital coats, one man per day, $5; wheel chair, $20; walking device, $50; ultra-violet lamp, $60; operating table, $135; artificial leg (average), $200; fever cabinet, $600.

CHINESE REDS TAKE YANKEES
Shanghai, Nov. 7 (AP)—The reported seizure by Chinese Communists of several American crewmen from a Liberty ship in the Chin-wankiao area today brought a prompt news blackout in U. S. Army headquarters in Shanghai.

Newsman, dependent on British sources, were told some seamen were seized by the Chinese Communists but some were released with apologies.

American army spokesmen refused to discuss the matter and the United States Consul General's office here said only that "vague" reports had been received.

Inquiries were referred to the Tientsin consulate, from which replies were unavailable.

BATHTUB NIGHTMARE
Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 7 (AP)—Vincent Totta, aged two and a half, was an interested spectator at the Shrine circus here.

Someone previously had given him a box of soap, each cake shaped like a miniature elephant. When real elephants paraded into the arena, Vincent's grandmother, Mrs. W. E. Urquhart, said: "Look, Vincent, what is that?"

Vincent took one glance and answered seriously: "Soap."

ENLISTS IN MARINES
Nelson Weaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Weaver, Bonneville, enlisted in the Marine Corps Monday and has reported to Parris Island, S. C.

OFFICE ROBBED
Erie, Pa., Nov. 7 (AP)—Maurice Bohman, manager of the Champion Auto Sales Co., told police $361.46 was stolen Monday night from a pouch in his office desk.

If she had known how very famous Dr. Andrew Patterson was, that his medical and surgical articles were awaited eagerly by the men of his profession, that his ministry of healing was a gift the entire nation appreciated, Anne might not have felt so much at ease in his presence. As it was she saw only a tall man with gray at the temples, tired eyes and a sensitive mouth. She said cordially, "Sit down, won't you, doctor? It was so kind of you to come to see me. I remember quite well writing to you and your wife, and your reply to my letter."

"Yes," he answered, seating himself beside the wheel chair, "perhaps the correspondence stated our gratitude, but I happened to be in this part of the country and could not resist coming to see you personally. I felt I had to tell you again what your letters meant especially to my wife. You cannot realize how you have enlightened the load we've had to carry since the death of our son."

"I'm glad, if the letters helped," she said gently.

"They did, more than perhaps you'll ever understand." He paused and smiled, almost like a shy boy. "I'm wondering if—if you've ever heard of me, by chance?"

She shook her head. "We're a little off the beaten path here," she began.

"I know. You'll forgive me for saying that. I am really quite—quite well known in my profession?"

"I'm sure you are."

"I say that to preface an offer I wish to make you. I'm sure you've had competent medical attention—but a great many advances have been made, a great many new procedures have been learned. It is not usually necessary in this day and time for a lovely young girl like you to go through life crippled." He paused again. "And so—I am wondering if—if you would let me make an examination of your injuries? If I could only do something to help you it would make me very happy."

An excited pulse began to beat in her throat. "I—I don't know what to say," she began, her voice breaking. "Of course, if I thought there was the slightest possibility—but the doctors in town were so certain—"

"Forgive me, but I happen to know that the best men of surgery in this section are still in the Pacific. I hope you won't think me blunt and conceited, but I'm of the opinion that I know more than these old codgers left at home." He smiled that shy boy's smile again. "I'm really very good!" he assured her. "If you like I can give you my credentials."

Irish Guard Is Lineman Of Week
New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—A Notre Dame sophomore guard, John Mastrangelo of Vandegrift, Pa., today won this week's Associated Press award as college football's "lineman of the week."

Mastrangelo, a 19-year-old who weighs 200 pounds and stands six feet, was in the thick of play as the Irish and Navy battled to a 6-6 tie Saturday at Cleveland. He received wide recognition among the players for his performance.

Ed Ryan, end on St. Mary's unbeaten, untied Gaels of the Pacific coast, received high praise for his work in the 26-0 rout of Southern California.

Knox Ramsey, 190-pound William and Mary tackle, and Kelley Mote, Duke end, were rated tops in the south.

Max Morris, Northwestern end, performed brilliantly against Ohio State while Guard Gaston Bourgeois, Tulane guard, made a game-saving tackle against Mississippi State.

R. E. "Peppy" Blunt Texas end, gained applause in the southwest for his game-winning touchdown against Southern Methodist.

SOUTHWORTH IS NEW PILOT OF BOSTON BRAVES

St. Louis Nov. 7 (AP)—The appointment of Eddie Dyer as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals to succeed Billy Southworth was announced today by Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals. Dyer was given a two-year contract.

A former top-ranking executive in the vast Cardinal farm system, Dyer resigned a year ago to enter the oil business with his three brothers in Texas. However, he kept his finger in baseball by representing the Red Birds at meetings of the suspended Texas league.

Both Owner Sam Breadon and Dyer refused to comment on the possibilities, but sporting circles here freely predict that the deal was closed prior to yesterday's announcement that Southworth was going to the Boston Braves.

By JOE KELLEY
Boston Nov. 7 (AP)—William H. "Billy the Kid" Southworth, who since his departure as team captain from the Boston Braves more than two decades ago led the St. Louis Cardinals to two world championships will return today to sign as new Tribe manager.

The deal bringing the popular Southworth back to Boston is the second big money transaction completed by the club owners who, when they took over more than a season ago, vowed they would spend to build the Braves into a pennant contender.

The first brought big Mort Cooper here from the Cardinals after the star hurler went on strike for more money.

Neither the salary to be paid the now graying Southworth nor the length of his contract have been disclosed but John Quinn, youthful and ambitious general manager of the Boston Nationals said that Billy would be offered an agreement "for more than a year."

His St. Louis pay had been reported to be in the vicinity of $20,000 to $25,000.

Gets Cardinals Release
Sam Breadon, Cardinal president, released Billy from his contract which had another year to run because Lou Perini, Braves' prexy, presented Southworth such a great opportunity.

In Cleveland last night where his Boston bound train stopped for a few minutes, Billy told the Associated Press that he was "happy to return to Boston," and said that the Braves could cause trouble in the pennant race if "we get the pitching staff clicking."

HOGAN OFF TO TOURNEY LEAD

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 7 (AP)—Pre-tournament talk had pegged Ben Hogan, the Hershey, Pa., package of golfing dynamite, as the favorite to take the 44th annual $50,000 north and south open event, and Ben didn't disappoint the dopesters.

The little links Larrupier, who set the tournament record of 271 in 1942 and won with 277 in 1940, toured the beautifully conditioned No. 2 Pinehurst course in 34-32—66, top score in yesterday's opening play.

But another fellow who knows his way around here was right up there with him. Denny Shute, the slender shot maker from Akron, Ohio, came in with 32-34.

Their 66s missed by a stroke tying the record of 30-35-65 set by Paul Runyan in 1935, when he won with 276.

Trailing the top two by three strokes in the record field of 166 was Henry Ransom of Houston, Texas, who was three under par for the last four holes with an eagle, a birdie and two pars. He scored 35-34-69.

A stroke back in a fourth place tie were Lt. Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., with 33-37-70, and Harman Keiser of Akron, Ohio, with 34-36-70.

Several veterans were among the 22 who played par 72 golf or better, 11 surpassing regulation figures.

Richmond's Bobby Cruikshank, was in the 71 group.

Other 71s were posted by 44-year-old Gene Sarazen, former open king; Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., ex-PGA titlist and winner here in 1938; little Tony Penna, Dayton, Ohio; Felix Serafin, Pittston, Pa., runner-up here to Runyan 1935; and Ed Furgol, of Birmingham, Mich.

Joe Kuhel To Play Again Next Season

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—Joe Kuhel is making no concession to the youngsters who will flood baseball next year. Although approaching 40, Kuhel will be back with the Washington Senators.

At the close of the intense 1945 American league season, the rubberized Missouri considered retiring from baseball to join a broadcasting company in his home town, Kansas City.

But the Senators' front office today received a letter from the graceful left hander saying that he has definitely decided to stay in the game—as a player in 1946, at least.

Reserves Seek 2nd Win Over Hanover

On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock the Gettysburg high school scrubs will seek their third successive football victory when Hanover junior high is met at Hanover.

Two weeks ago the Maroons scored their first win at the expense of the much-surprised Falcon eleven by a 12-0 score. The invaders were so confident of victory that they used their second string outfit to start the game. Entry of the regulars proved useless as Coach Haehnlen's lads completely dominated play.

The coming game is expected to be a hotly contested affair and the locals will have to be in top form to repeat their first triumph.

BULLETS OPEN CAGE DRILLS

An 18-game basketball schedule will be played by the Gettysburg college Bullets this year, Prof. C. E. Bilheimer, athletic director, announced today.

Dates for 15 games have already been set and are as follows: December 5, Elizabethtown State Teachers', home; 8, Albright, away; 11, Juniata, home; January 12, Lehigh, home; 16, Dickinson, home; 26, Lafayette, away; 30, Bucknell, home; February 2, Lehigh, away; 6, Muhlenberg, home; 9, Bucknell, away; 13, F. and M., home; 16, Lafayette, home; 23, Muhlenberg, away; 27, Dickinson, away; March 2, F. and M., away.

A squad of about 30 members responded to Coach "Hen" Bream's first call for candidates Tuesday evening.

Included in the group were Davey Plank and Cal Welliver, of the 1942 squad, both of whom received discharges from the armed forces.

The squad is expected to be greatly augmented within the next two weeks with the return to school of more cage candidates.

Drills will be held at 7 o'clock each evening until Coach Bream completes his chores as coach of the Biglerville high school football team next week after which afternoon sessions will be held.

NEW DEMPSEY POST
New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—Jack Dempsey had under consideration today an offer reported by his manager, Max Waxman, to take charge of a new organization to promote

EIGHT MAROONS IN FINAL TILT

Eight members of the Gettysburg high school varsity football squad will appear in uniform for the last time Friday evening when the Maroons ring down the curtain on their disastrous 1945 campaign by meeting Mechanicsburg here in a Southern Pennsylvania conference game.

A ninth member of the squad, Donald Raffensperger, dropped out of uniform several weeks ago due to a leg injury which hampered him all season.

Of the eight, five have been seeing action regularly while the remaining trio have seen brief relief action.

Heading the list of seniors in Dave Rasmussen, end, who has been outstanding in every game this year and is rated by many as the best wing-man in the conference. Al McDonnell, halfback, and Nelson Mattingly, quarterback, will see their final bit of action while on the line Robert Heyser and Earl Forry, guards, will also be winding up their careers.

Charles Curley, center, Francis Eberhart, tackle, and John Scott, halfback, who were used in substitute roles, round out the group who will receive diplomas next and televize boxing shows at a yearly salary of $250,000. Waxman said Dempsey would start working with the new outfit in 1946 if the deal goes through.

Poor Digestion? Headachy? Sour or Upset? Tired-Listless?

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? To feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly.

Each day, Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested—leaving you headachy and irritable.

Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—often in as little as 30 minutes. And, you're on the road to feeling better.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any drugstore. Only 25¢.

ARENDTSTVILLE CAGERS DRILL

The Arendtsville vocational high school basketball team, undefeated in county competition for the past spring.

Hopes are high in the Maroon camp to close the season with a victory. Mechanicsburg has played spotty ball all season but can be depended upon to be at their best against the locals which has been characteristic in previous encounters.

With each succeeding week the Maroons have improved nicely and if they have an "on" night Friday's sophomore guard.

the Wildcats may be the first and only victim of the Pfdinger-men's practice drills this week. The team is again under the tutelage of H. Vernon Blough.

Arendtsville's championship combination for the past two years was riddled by graduation last spring when four members of the starting five received their diplomas—Rickard Slaybaugh, George Fieser, Charles Lady and William Guise. Guise is now enrolled at Gettysburg college and Lady is studying at Susquehanna university, Selma, grove.

Robert Allison, veteran sharpshooting forward, heads the list of recruits this year at Arendtsville. The only other lettermen on the squad include Sterling Singley, a senior pivotman, and James Spengler, a sophomore guard.
